User stories

As an admin, I want to be able to run tests on the program without clicking through the game.

As a parent, I want to log in easily so my child can start the game as fast as possible.

As a parent, I want to be sure there is no advertising or harmful material in the game so I can leave my child unattended.

As a user (child), I want the option to start the game to be clear so I can start as fast as possible.

As a user, I want to see representations of scientists so I can learn about nonstandard career paths I could take.

As a user, I want to make decisions that affect the games outcome so I am actively learning rather than passively observing.

As a user, I want to be able to start the game over if I want to see a different outcome or am interested in more careers.

As a user, I want to be able to play the game by clicking on graphics so there is no option that I cannot read.

As a user, I want a friendly voice to guide me through the game so I know what options I have.

As a user, I want options to be distinct from each other so my decisions cannot be confused with others.

As a user, I want to see a representation of myself in the form of an avatar to enhance my investment in the game's outcome. (optional)

As a user, I want to see children dressed up in costumes/uniforms that represent possible careers so I can imagine myself in their shoes.

As a user, I want to be able to control the volume so the game is not too quiet or loud.
